FORUM OVERVIEW

Each year, the Canadian Academy of Health Sciences (CAHS) hosts an annual Forum bringing together CAHS Fellows – world-renowned leaders in academic health sciences – to share their expertise in an interdisciplinary setting. The series, now in its 18th year, focuses on important and emerging new areas of health sciences research and practice.

CAHS Fellows are world-renowned leaders and innovators who have a history of outstanding performance in the academic health sciences in Canada. The Forum is an opportunity to provide insight and drive change and improvement for the health of Canadians.

O.ONT MD FCFP FRCPC (Hon) FCAHS, St. Michael's Hospital-Unity Health and Associate Professor, Temerty Faculty of Medicine, University of Toronto, and Jacinthe Lampron, MD MPHE FRCSC FACS, Medical Director of Trauma Program, General Surgery, The Ottawa Hospital.

Gun Violence is a Public Health Issue

Firearm injury and death rates have been increasing steadily in Canada over the decade. Gun violence affects all segments of society, as there are several forms of gun violence (including suicide, femicide, interpersonal violence and public mass shootings) each with its own unique epidemiology, risk factors and harm reduction strategies. Our panel of experts will look at a multi-pronged approach including investments to address the social determinants of health and, efforts to end the proliferation of guns. A public health approach with a focus on community engagement, public education and evidence informed policy is imperative to reducing harm.

The event will assist health care providers to have informed and meaningful conversations with patients, families and communities affected by gun violence. Participants will learn about risk reduction strategies in the context of their own practice as well as the necessity of evidence-informed advocacy. The content will be presented in a thought-provoking manner that will stimulate further scholarly work, development of programming for learners and scientific enquiry.
